Rewarding Leadership: The ACHCA Annual Facility Leadership Awards

Alexandria, VA – March 27, 2013 – The American College of Health Care Administrators (ACHCA) will present its Facility Leadership Award to deserving administrators of top-performing long term care facilities at their 47th Annual Convocation and Exposition held April 12-16 in Orlando, Florida. The award recognizes administrators' achievement of a level of performance related to selected dimensions of organizational quality that few others have been able to reach.

Achieving a universally recognized state of quality in a long term care organization is certainly no simple feat. From the challenge of implementing established standards of quality criteria, to management theory teaching that quality care and service yield operational success, to consumer advocate groups who point out the relationship between facility leadership stability and higher quality — long term care professionals face unique challenges when it comes to the issues of quality performance.

Given this, ACHCA's endless journey in advancing excellence in long term care leadership leads them to seek and acknowledge those individuals who have achieved a demonstrated measure of clinical achievement, good service, compliance excellence, reduced liability exposure, and commercial success. Rising to not only meet, but to exceed, all of these challenges is undeniably a remarkable accomplishment that is achieved only by those who possess stellar leadership capabilities.

To identify those top-performing organizations whose administrators are eligible for the Facility Leadership Award, eHealth Data Solutions, a long term care data and information company based in Cleveland, Ohio, analyzed national, publicly available MDS and Survey data from CMS and proceeded to rank order it within each state. Based on this analysis, the top performing Medicare certified skilled nursing facilities and their administrators have been identified and were notified in February that their administrator is eligible to receive this leadership recognition on behalf of their organization.

Founded in 1962, the American College of Health Care Administrators (ACHCA) is the only professional association devoted solely to meeting the professional needs of today's long term care administrators and executives. Focusing on advancing leadership excellence, ACHCA provides professional education and certification to administrators from across the spectrum of long term care. Administrators nationwide are invited to help recognize outstanding leadership efforts and participate in exceptional educational programming by attending the 2013 ACHCA Convocation. For more information about ACHCA or the 2013 Convocation contact the national office at (202) 536-5120 or visit www.achca.org.
